

The Julian Calendar

Tag line: One year. Two voices. The infinite possibilities of love.

Author: William Henry

Publication: 15 November 2018 (New Zealand)

ISBN: 978-0-9582355-5-6

Trade paperback: 330 pages

Dimensions: 229 x 152mm (9" x 6")

RRP: NZ$34.99

About the author

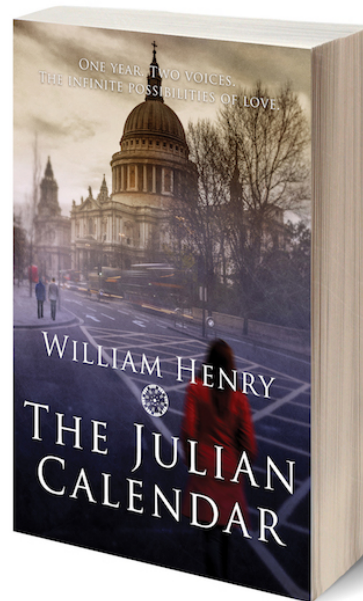

Simon Hertnon launches his fiction career as William Henry with this intriguing love story set in London during 1992-93.

Simon teaches business writing at Victoria University of Wellington and is the author of three non-fiction titles, including From Afterwit to Zemblanity: 100 endangered words brought to life (New Holland, 2007). Simon has a BA (Linguistics). He lives in Auckland with his wife and twin daughters.

Sales points

- A unique love story.
- Two male voices: 23-year-old straight idealist and 63-year-old gay realist.
- Completed over 26 years and is based on Simon's real relationship with renowned and recently deceased London bookseller, John Garmonsway (Mowbray's MD during 70s and 80s).
- John co-authored the first draft in 1993.
- Spotify playlist for music enthusiasts.
- Quick follow-up in 2019 with Par Avion, first of 'The Lost Letters Trilogy'.

Description

A bright young photojournalist returns to London with the aim of releasing himself from a profound love affair that has stalled without explanation.

Instead, he is derailed by memories of the secretive nurse who broke his heart, and rejuvenated by an erudite, gay, retired publisher. And so begins an unexpected and intense friendship that challenges the fundamental notion of love itself.

New Zealand distribution

nakedize
DISTRIBUTION

nakedize.com/distribution

info@nakedize.com