

Information sheet

Title: The Julian Calendar
 Tag line: One year. Two voices.
 The infinite possibilities of love.
 Author: William Henry
 Format: Trade paperback
 Pages: 330
 Dimensions: 228mm x 152mm

ISBN: 9780958235556
 RRP: NZ$34.99
 Web: williamhenrybooks.com
 Facebook: @WilliamHenryAuthor
 Publication: 15 November 2018
 Promotion: February-March 2019

For all rights enquiries contact Simon Hertnon
 Mobile: 027 573-4464 Email: simon@nakedize.com

About the author

Simon Hertnon (simonhertnon.com) launches his fiction career as William Henry with this captivating love story.

Simon teaches business writing at Victoria University of Wellington and is the author of three non-fiction titles, including From Afterwit to Zemblanity: 100 endangered words brought to life (New Holland, 2008).

Simon has a BA (Linguistics). He lives in Auckland with his wife and twin daughters.

Sales triggers

- Keywords: love, courage, London, 1990s, homosexuality, coming out, religion, retirement, road trips, music
- Real-life genesis; written over 26 years
- 'Julian' based on Kiwi expat UK book-seller, John Garmonsway (1928–2018)
- Dramatic publishing backstory
- Spotify playlist for music enthusiasts
- Quick follow-up in 2019 with Par Avion, first of the 'Lost Letters Trilogy'

Description

A bright young photojournalist returns to London with the aim of releasing himself from a profound love affair that has stalled without explanation.

Instead, he is derailed by memories of the secretive nurse who broke his heart, and rejuvenated by a retired publisher, Julian, who is erudite, excellent company, and gay.

So begins an unexpected and intense friendship that challenges the fundamental notion of love itself.

New Zealand distribution

nakedize
 DISTRIBUTION

nakedize.com/distribution
info@nakedize.com